

Crazy in Love

Description

In just 11 days, I will be celebrating my 1 year Anniversary with my husband. It's made me reflect on the number one a lot this week. So I'm thinking I will do some of that reflecting on here.

First of all, I'm crazy in LOVE with God. He is still Number One in my life. If there was anything I ever feared about a marriage it was where my relationship with God would go. Thankfully, my husband has been so supportive and so encouraging about who I am in the Lord and where my relationship is at with God. He is constantly spurring me forward. I'm so blessed.

Back to God! I remember being a little girl and talking to God all the time. He has always been my number 1 friend and it seems even though time continues to go by, the ranking of where God is in my life has not changed. My life with God just keeps getting more exciting. Yes, it's difficult at times.

There are some punches that come from different directions when I least expect it, but I would never ever trade in this wonderful relationship I have with my heavenly Father. He is amazing.

I know I can't be Wonder Woman for my husband and he can't be Superman for me, although he comes close. But God, He is everything. He doesn't fail me. He doesn't miss a thing. He knows my thoughts, He knows my heart, He seems me fumble the ball, and He still loves me. It's remarkable to think that no matter how much I mess up, God still loves me. He still remains faithful.

Sometimes I have the most difficult time falling asleep at night because I think about how blessed I am to be a daughter of God and all the wonderful things that God is doing in my life. Who am I? I ask some of the questions I've read in the Psalms by David. I'm just simply me, yet God loves me just as I am. I don't have to do any fancy tricks or stand upside down on my head. I don't have to have a perfect body or even have every hair in place. God loves me as I am. He's crazy about me! And you know what, I'm crazy about Him.

So this week, as I celebrate the number 1 and it's meaning in my life. The first thing I celebrate is God. He is always going to be Number 1. My number 1 love. My number 1 friend. My number 1 comforter, listener, provider, healer, my everything! He is my All in All.

May you celebrate with me in this new day and the love we have from a Father who knows no end to the Love He will lavish so freely on us!

Being loved by the King!

In Daddy's Arms,

Category

1. Following Jesus

Tags

1. God
2. Love
3. One

Date Created

March 5, 2009

Author

thepricelessjourney

default watermark