

Fine Tuning

Description

I praise you because I am fearfully and wonderfully made; your works are wonderful, I know that full well. (Psalm 139:14)

God has been doing some fine tuning in my life. Sometimes I desire so much to be used by Him, that I become lost in that desire. I have found that to be true as I write these devotionals in the last month or so. My intentions have been in the right place, as I have intended to bring the light of Jesus to those who have yet to know God's Truth. But somewhere along the line, I forgot to study God's Truth for myself. This will be the last devotional in this format.

Writing these devotionals has become somewhat mechanical for me and has not flown out of my joy to serve the Lord. So I have taken a few steps back. I am re-evaluating what it means to be a writer and what my true desires are in writing.

To be honest I'm not really a format kind of gal. I don't really enjoy structure when it comes to things like this. I enjoy letting God move me moment by moment. He is in charge, not me. This is His time, His words, and my life is His to lead. I will be here as His instrument to write through when He so chooses to and I will write the words He chooses to write through me. I may write one day a week or five, depending on what God lays on my heart.

Dear Father God, I pray that You will continue to guide me for Your glory. Please pour into me, so I can pour into others. May I always listen to You and glean wisdom from Your Word.

Thank You for the Fine Tuning Lord,

Category

1. Following Jesus

Date Created

September 16, 2009

Author

thepricelessjourney